A Card.

Ms. Lyxen-Dear Sir:-Having been shown that it was announced in the Winchester Virginian, of April 29th, that citizens of Loudoun, Whigs, who went to Pennsylvania to secure the fugitive slave, returned home, declaring that in future, they should act with the Democratic party, and "that the only two that left there, opponents of Democracy, have come back to their county national Democrats, and mean, for the balance of their lives, to unite themselves to the destinies of that party," and lest some importance might attach to the publication of such error in the present conpublication of sacrification in the present contunity of disclaiming any such intention on our part of co-operating with the Democratic party, or becoming life members of such a party. Very respectfully, JOHN M. PATTON,

SANDFORD P. ROGERS. Mt. Gilead, May 4, 1859 .- Leesburg Wash

Mr. Shackelford, in the Blue Ridge Republican, most distinctly and emphatically denies that he has ever said that "he cannot be elected." The Blue Ridge Republican says: - "We have been in the extreme ends of the District, recently, and have seen gentlemen of both parties, from various parts of it, and we say to the friends of Shackelford that he is gaining strength daily-that if they will go to work in right good earnest, they will see that he is the "strong man."

OBITUARY.

Dien, in Jeffersonton, Culpeper County, Virginia, on Friday, at noon, April 15th, 1859, at her father's residence, in the 23d year of her age, Mrs. JULIA E. HENNING, consort of Dr. Wm. H. Henning, of Powhatan county, and daughter of Theodore N. Davison, esq. Life is but a vision— a passing reality. Man may live to-day in all the joyousness and vigor of his mortal career, perrow the icy finger of death is laid upon him the warm blood congeals, and the body returns to the source from whence it sprung. But a few years since, and one whose virtues and superior ntellect had won for her the purest and most unalloyed feeling of friendship and cateen, atood at the holy altar and swore eternal love for him the partner of her dearest affections. Surrounded there by father, mother, brother and sisters Julia full of life, happiness and health, took upon her-self the marriage vow. Under the bright influence of that happy hour none thought how soon would be the melancholy change in the destiny of her towards whom all eyes were turned in fond and affectionate regard. The writer was permitted to assist in her marriage nuptials, and as he gazed upon that pure and gentle face, little thought that in a few short fleeting years the lovely bride was destined to change the marriage habiliment for the shroud of death. Truly was the bright prospect before her dimmed too soon, for but a few short months passed over her head, before her friends were conscious that her earthly pilgrimage was soon to close in the thick darkness of sternal night. Consumption, that fell destroyor which takes from earth so many of its mos precious ornaments, had early in the year 1855 fixed her as his victim and propared to call her hence. The writer well remembers the anguish of the husband, when he saw that the destiny of his bride had changed, and that he, too soon, must pour out his grief for her he loved. In the Spring of 1855, the health of the deceased commenced declining and so rapidly did the disease make upon its victim that many thought "her work would soon be o'er." For menths, however, she lingered between earth and eternity, at times appearing much better and ever giving some hope to those around. Three years ago, our friend uni-ted herself to the Petersville Baptist Church, in Powhatan Co., since which time her feet have been turned to the Lord "whose mercy endureth forever." and who hath declared "he turneth none empty away who call upon him in sincerity and in truth." Mysterious indeed, is the Providence that has over-shadowed the hearts of so many with this sudden and melaucholy gloom; but we dare not question the mercy, the goodness, nor the justice, of that tool who holds the chastening rod in his own hand. Believing that he has some wise end in view, may we learn a lesson of wisdom and write upon our own hearts the command of our divine master "Be ve also ready, for in such an hour as ye think not the son of man cometh."

During the early part of October last, the wasted and emaciated form of her who had once been so beautiful and lovely, under the care of her affec-tionate and distressed mother, reached her father's residence in Jeffersonton, after a fatiguing journey from the residence of her husband, in Powhatan county. Her doom then was sealed. Death had fixed its mark, and it was only a question of time how long she would remain with her almost distracted parents. From the time of her entrance into that house until her freed spirit was transported to other climes, she gradually sank under the load of disease, until finally, on the 15th of this month, the flickering light of earth faded from her view, and the mysterious land of shadows was passed, as her ransomed soul winged its mrial flight to the dwelling place of the redeemed. "For I know that my Redeemer liveth," were the words selected by herself as a suitable text for her funeral sermon, which was preached to a large concourse of sorrowing friends in the church, at Jeffersonton. The grief stricken parents deserve the sympathy of all, and with that fond and loving mother we deeply sympathise. Memory, that source of pleasure of pain, will often bring up the image of the dear departed one. Yes, so often will the grief stricken ther be carried back through the mazes of bygone years, to the sunny season of sweet, in nocent childhood, ere the cares and anxieties of maturer life had cast their shadows o'er the blithesome spirit of her Julia, and with a mother's devotion she will follow her on through all the phases of her eventiful life, remembering the scenes of commingled pleasure and pain that marked her way. Often in the deep affection of her nature, may we not hear her say, "none was ever blessed with a more affectionate child than Julia." It is not necessary that we should longer portray her virtues bere. They are deeply entwined in the recollecsarthly homes are so much valued by us, what should be our thoughts and feelings at the prospect of inheriting a sweeter and brighter home in Heaven. May the hearts of the sorrowing friends b strengthened and cheered by grace divine, and may they at last be re-united around the Throne of the

Some generous hand, now she is gone, Will bring a rose most fair, To bloom above her sleeping head,

And shed its fragrance there. And kindred hearts, at close of eve, Will come and breath a sigh, To think that flower, though fresh it blooms, Like her will fade and die." Warrenton, Va., April 28th.

Dist, on the 4th inst., at Springfield, Staffor County, in the 43rd year of her age, Mrs. MA-RION L. TALIAFERRO, wife of Col. J. M. Taliaerro, daughter of the late tieo. tirymes, of King George. It may truly be said of the deceased that hers had been a life of piety and faith, con-sistent in every duty, as wife, parent, and friend. We mourn her as an irreparable loss to her deeply afflicted husband, children, and friends, but feel every assurance, that to her is a gain of an etarual weight of glory, in the bright abode of her Saviour and her tiod.

At the time of the reception of this letter, Mr. Robertson was under the belief that Col. Baldwin was the successful competitor. So, in lieu of writing his friend an original letter of congratulation, he took his letter to him, erased his own name, wherever it occurred, inserted that of Col. BALTIMORE TRADE TO ALEXANDRIA.-W. find the following communication, dated ORANGE COURT HOUSE, May 7. - You can Virginia, May 4, in the Baltimore Amerisay with almost absolute certainty to all who can of Saturday, and publish it, in order to trade to and from this place-and with what is said on these subjects, especially, in Balti-"In the sleepless and indefatigable competitions which mark the trade and business of the country at the present time, success unquestionably best secured by the prompt employment and appropriation of those facilities of transportation and general intercommunication which the industrial energies of the day in every direction are so rapidly developing. This proposition requires no argument or illustration to establish its soundess. It is the principle or line of action, combined of course with other agencies, that expands the bamlet into the town, the town into the city, and the city into the proportions of the great commercial emporium.-These thoughts are preliminary to some considerations, which, through your journal, I would offer the business men of Baltimore, in connection with the recent opening of a line of steam communication between Philadelphia and the District of Columbia and Alexandria, connecting directly with New York, which has beyond all doubt materially affected the trade of Baltimore during the past season.

The damage sustained by us is not restricted to those points with which this line is in immediate connection, though that has been very considerable. But Alexandria is Boston, will take place. So it will be seen now the terminal point of three railroads, two of which at present do-and the other will-ramify an immense region of country with which Baltimore has heretofore cultivated a very extensive business intercourse; and when the small link in the Orange and Alexandria road, between Gordonsville and Lynchburg, is completed—as it is expected to be in a few months-it (Alexandria) aust become a most important point for the transhipment and forwarding of that infinite variety of freight which will be socking the extended region of country opened up by the road first named, the Virginia and Tennessee road, and the various lines in connection with those in the South and Southwest. New York, in anticipation of the valuable trade coming North through this channel, will, it is fully ascertained, inaugurate a direct line of propellers to this place in a few months. Philadelphia is already in the field, doing with her weekly propeller line a most prosperous business, bringing not only heavy freights to Alexandria, Washington and Georgetown, but large quantities of merchandise for that interior ortion of Virginia, which until recently ere bought in Baltimore. How stands Baltimore in this existing and prospective competition? Why, a weekly senger and freight boat, assisted by a ropeller. These are all in the same hands, nd, of course, governed by those exactions that distinguish all monopolies. I have it from some of Alexandria's best and most reliable merchants, that they are to-day paying smaller rates of freight from New York to Alexandria than from Baltimore to that point. The tariff upon the heavier articles of merchandise is now so small that this question of freight must be looked to by the urchaser. What is the consequence to us? from our market—men who have evinced a disposition to do business with us, but who will not encounter the rates they have here.

Mr. Nelson, rector of the Green | earnestly believed, to be operating most sealways exhibited, not to be overwhelmed by rivalries-should not be permitted to continue. If Baltimore proposes to retain the trade from that quarter now indicating a purpose to go by her, because of the disadvantages against her upon the score of high of success, in competition with New York and Philadelphia, upon that fine field of trade which must unquestionably be opened by the consummation of the railroad connections already referred to .- it is of supreme importance that this question of transportation should at once be put upon a basis, that, instead of driving the trade from, shall invite it to our market. Baltimore is perfectly capable of meeting her Northern rivals on this arena, but supineness, it is submitted, is not the shape in which it should be exhibited. MONUMENTAL. MORE TO BE ADMIRED THAN THE RICHEST DIADEM EVER WORN BY KINGS OR EMPERORS.—WHAT! WHY A BEAUTIFUL HEAD OF HAIR.—Because it is the ornament God himself provided for all our race. Reader, although the rose may bloom ever so brightly in the glowing check, the eye be ever so sparkling, the teeth be those of pearls, if the head bereft of its covering, or the hair be snarled and shriveled, harsh and dry, or worse still, if sprink-led with gray, nature will lose more than half her charms. Prof. WOOD'S HAIR RESTORATIVE, f used two or three times a week, will restore and permanently secure to all such an ornament. Read the following and judge. The writer of the first is the celebrated Pianist, Thalberg: New York, April 19, 1858.—Dr. Wood, Dea Sir: Permit me to express to you the obligations I am under for the entire restoration of my hair to its original color; about the time of my arrival in the United States it was rapidly becoming gray out upon the application of your "HAIR RE STORATIVE" it soon recovered its original bue. I consider your RESTORATIVE as a very wonderful invention, quite efficacious as well as agreeable. I am, dear sir, yours truly, S. THALBERG.

"Drych a'r Gwyliedydct." Welsh Newspaper Office, 13 Nassau street April 12, 1858 .- Prof. O. J. Wood-Dear Sir :me month or six weeks ago, I received a bottle of your HAIR RESTORATIVE, and gave it to my wife, who concluded to try it on her hair, little thinking at the time that it would restore the gray hair to its original color, but to her as well as my surprise, after a few weeks' trial it has performed that wonderful effect by turning all the gray hairs to a dark brown, at the same time beautifying and thickening the hair. I strongly recommend the above RESTORATIVE to all persons in want of such a change of their hair. CHAS, CARDEW.

NEW YORK, July 25, 1857.—Prof. O. J. WOOD With confidence do I recommend your HAIR RESTORATIVE, as being the most efficacious article I ever saw. Since using your HAIR RE-STORATIVE my hair and whiskers which were almost white, have gradually grown dark; and I now feel confident that a few more applications will restore them to their natural color. It also has relieved me of all dandruff and unpleasant itching, so common among persons who perspire freely.

J. G. KILBY.

Prof. Wood.-About two years ago my hair commenced falling off and turning gray: I was fast becoming bald, and had tried many remedies to no effect. I commenced using your RESTO-RATIVE in January last. A few applications fastened my hair firmly. It began to fill up, grow out, and turned back to its former color, (black, At this time it is fully restored to its original color, health, and appearance, and I cheerfully recommend its use to all.

Chicago, Ill., May 1, 1867.

The RESTORATIVE is put up in bottles of three sizes, viz: large, medium, and small; the small holds a pint, and retails for one dollar per bottle; the medium holds at least twenty per cent more in proportion than the small, retails for two dollars per bottle; the large holds a quart, 40 per
